How to successfully reconcile the interdisciplinary and the Forward Looking Analysis?

Most Forward Looking Analysis (FLA) studies are focused on a single specific theme. As consequence, a wide range of FLA analysis take as exogenous some key parameters of other thematic areas that are, in reality, strongly interconnected -directly or indirectly- with the evolution of the studied thematic. Thus, to some extent, it could be argued that a holistic approach in FLA is missing, especially in the case of the demographics and economic areas.

This is, precisely, one of the main arguments presented by the Flagship team in the Flagship review paper - led by the Basque Centre for Climate Protection (BC3) - which analyses the most relevant existing literature on FLA studies. This Review paper challenges previous FLA studies by carrying out an in-depth analysis of the strengths and weaknesses found in the FLA literature, and identifying where the most remarkable gaps are found –such as the diversity of methodologies, techniques, and the lack of a holistic approach.
